Material Title: Adopted (DVD)

Author: Barb Lee DVDs 2008 80 minutes

This DVD, by first-time director Barb Lee, reveals the grit rather than the glamour of transracial adoption, going deep into the intimate lives of two well-meaning families and showing us the subtle challenges they face. One family is just beginning the process of adopting a baby from China, the other family's Korean daughter is now 32 years old. Prompted by her adoptive mother's terminal illness, she tries to create the bond they never had. The results are riveting, unpredictable and telling. While the two families are at opposite ends of their respective journeys, their stories converge to show us that love alone isn't enough to make a family work.

Includes the companion DVD, "Adopted: We Can Do Better", with more than two hours of experts' advice to help families clarify their intentions, cope with grief, identify themselves as a mixed-race family, foster identity for their transracial adopted children, and become educated about the politics of international adoption.

Material Title: Closure: A Documentary About Adoption (DVD)

Author: Bryan Tucker DVDs 2013 16 minutes

Angela, an African-American woman, was raised by a Caucasian couple in a large, multiracial family in Washington State. She was adopted at the age of one from foster care in the state of Tennessee, under the terms of a closed adoption. As Angela grew older it became apparent that the unanswered questions about her birth story would continue to haunt her if she did not attempt to find some answers. Filmed and edited by her husband Bryan, this documentary follows Angela for two years during the search for her birth family. Several twists and surprising revelations ultimately lead Angela and her family across the country to her place of birth. It is here where Angela comes face to face with her birth mother for the first time, and meets family members who had never known she was even born - including her birth father.

Material Title: Emancipated Youth Connections Project: Permanency Stories (DVD)

Author: Seneca Family of Agencies

DVDs

10 minutes

This video shares participants' experiences through the 2008 project, "Emancipated Youth Connections Projects." The purpose of the project was to develop a model of service to find permanency for 20 young adults (ranging in age from 17-39 years) who had left the foster care system without having permanent and unconditional lifelong connections to at least one adult. Many participants lost contact with siblings. Each participant was supported to make connections and reach out to birth family or other who are important to them. Each one had a unique experience with the process. A toolkit was developed as a result for this project and is available through the SENECA website.

Material Title: Lost and Found (VHS)

Author: Debra Baker Videotapes 2005 26 minutes

There are over six million adoptees in the U.S., and though "Lost and Found" is Debra's own story, it could be the story of any of those separated through a closed adoption system. We have seen the airport reunions, and this film takes viewers into the real world of forming relationships in a new, strangely familiar family, and the impact of search and reunion not only on mother and "child", but entire families.

Through interviews of her family, her son, and his adoptive mother, the emotions and ramifications of reunion are explored. Debra's son's story is connected to Debra's story through that of his adoptive mom's, who was gravely ill when Debra met her. But his adoptive mom wanted to tell her story, also; that she felt reunion was a good thing, that there is enough love to go around, hoping to encourage adoptees to search, and their adoptive parents to support them.

Material Title: Sibling Reunions: A Letter to Those Who Have Been Contacted

Author: Randolph W. Severson, PhD Books 1991 33 pages

"I have something to tell you," says your mother or father, wearing a downcast look, one that you haven't seen before or at least not seen that often. "What's wrong?" you think... You brace for the worst. But what you hear is something like, "Before I met your Dad"... Or a letter comes: "Dear... I don't really know how to begin this. You don't know me but..." Or the telephone rings. Or there is a knock at the door. On the other side of the conversation or on the other side of the door is a stranger who, with a few words or an improbably story that, nonetheless, at once rings true, becomes what you didn't think you had: a brother, a sister, another sibling. You catch your breath. You freeze. You pause. You mumble awkwardly. And then, your whole world shifts.

Material Title: Social networking and contact: How social workers can help adoptive families

Author: Eileen Fursland Books 2010 102 pages

This book, published by the British Association for Adoption & Fostering (BAAF), examines the way internet, social networking and other technologies are changing the landscape of adoption contact, search and reunion. It is the first UK guide to explore the many pressing questions and concerns facing social workers: What do practitioners need to know about adoption in the Facebook age? How can they be equipped for new challenges? What do social workers need to know about protecting privacy and security so that they can give advice to young people and their families? How can social workers manage the complex situations that arise from unauthorized and unmediated contact? What advice and support is available?

The guide demystifies the technology behind social networking sites, provides a practical explanation of how they work and tackles key issues such as internet safety, privacy and identity protection. It examines the challenges faced by all parties involved in contact and looks at balancing the adopted child's curiosity and need to know with the adoptive family's fears and concerns around security and disruption. Social networking and contact provides a significant amount of information, raises important questions and offers essential advice. Case studies and quotations enable others' experiences to be shared, and reveal the potential and very significant risks that some people have experienced. Although it does not provide any easy answers, the guide does include hard-won insights from adoption workers and adoptive parents who have had to face up to the impact of Facebook.
